BOLD TRAIN ROBBERS

Two Masked Highwaymen "Hold Up" a Sleeper's Occupants.

A CONDUCTOR'S PLUCKY ACT

Prevents the Passengers of the Entire Train From Being Robbed, Near Kansas City-A Sheriff's Posse

Chasing the Robbers. Wabash Western Express as it

The Wabsel western train left Kan-sas City at 8:20 o'clock last night, When the train reached the Missouri river bridge two men were seen to get off the forward end of the baggage car and dis-appear behind the lumber pile. The train hands thought they were tramps, who had stolen a ride from Kansas City. They are convinced now that they were the robbers and that they caught the end of the last sleeper as it passed umber pile. Just as the train pull-ut of Harlem, the robbers entered the car and went through the passen-gers as described. It was evidently their intention to rob the passengers in all the coaches, "working" the train from ed for the next one shead. On the platform they met the conductor of the train form they met the conductor to the table and John Rosch. One of the robbers pushed his revolver under the conductor's nose, and with an oath ordered him to hold up his hands. The conductor supposing from the nature of their disguise. posing from the instruct of their tanguise that a number of a railroad men who had taken passage on the train were playing a practical joke on him, with a laugh he attempted to push past them and enter the sheeper. Just them agust of wind swept asida the masks of the robbers, and then be knew that the affair assautt, the other robber and a should be him from his revolver. The aim was bad, and the bullet missed its mark. The first robber had by this time recovered himself, and he too took a shot at the conductor. His aim was no more at the conductor.

In the meantime the passengers in the St. Paul coach had been so completely terrorized that they did not regain their senses until they heard the liring on the platform. Then one of them cut the cord that connects with the air brake and the train came to a stand-still. By this time the train had run a still. By this time the train had run a mile bevond the place where the rob-bers had escaped. W. H. Bonnell, spe-cial agent of the road, was a passonger in the smoking ear. When the train came to a sudden stop he rushed out to Learning from the conductor the oc arrence of the robbery, he immediately set to work to begin the chase for the robbers. He ordered the engineer to run the train to Randolph, a few miles ahead, and there he uncoupled the engine and run it back to Harlem. There he found Deputy Sheriff Tomlinson, Guards were stationed at the approaches of the bridge to prevent the robbers entrance into Kansas City, and two posses were organized to accur the country for the fugitives. Special Agent Bonnell then walked back to Kansas City, arriving here at 2:30 o'clock this morning, and reported the case to the police, who are keeping a lookout in the city for the road agents. The police of the neighboring towns have also been asked to arrest any one answering the description of the robbers. The robbers are described as rather youthful, not over 20 or 23 years of age, of slight build and dresced something like farmers' boys. Sherif. Tomlinson's posse returned this morn'ug after an almost fruitless search for the 'obbets. They succeeded trance into Kansas City, and two pos this morning after an amost relations search for the volviets. They succeeded in tracing the mile to a form house on the dirt road, where it is known they stole a horse from a fariner pagned Evans. It is supposed they forced the lovest to come the track of the force to come the track of the state of the track of the Evans. It is supposed the volume forced the horse to carry double. The tracks of the horse to carry double. The tracks of the animal at least were traced to a 2-md in the river where the footprints in 'the sand show that two men probably dismounted. At this point all traces of the bandits was lost. It is very likely they crossed the river and boarded a train for Leavenworth on the Kansas Otty & Northwestern road, and by that means to Leavenworth, and thence to some point in Nebraska.

commissioner Museu Says the Investigation in West Virginia Shows the Charge of Corruption at the Polls was Massiesa,

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 4.—Hon. John W. Mason, Commissioner of Inter-nal Revenue, in commenting on the remarkable statements made by Governor Wilson during his recent visit to Washington, said that he believed the last election in West Virginia was the fairest one ever held, and that, in his opinion, there was less illegal voting than is usually the case. To illustrate the force of this observation, Mr. Mason KANSAS CITY, Mo., August 4.—"Hold said that the results of the recent contests demonstrated the fact that the un your hands!" Such was the com-mand that astonished the passengers on election was a marvellously fair one, In all the testimony taken in the Guberof the Wabash Western Express as it pulled out of Harlem at 8:50 o'clock has evening. The command was spoken by one of the two men whose faces were concealed behind handkerchiefs, who had entered the rear of the coach. The passengers turned to ascertain the cause of the command and looked into the threatening muzzles of two revolvers. There were seven persons in the coach, five passengers, the sleeping car conductor and the porter. One man went through the passegers one by one while the other, with his revolver, kept a watch. In this way the plunderers secured all the booty, amounting to $172 cash and two gold watches.

The Wabash western train left Kaasas City at 8:20 o'clock last night, When the train reached the Missouri river bridge two men were seen to get off the forward end of the baggage car and disappear behind the lumber pile. The thrown out, were not cast with a design to commitfraud, and were not criminally to commit fraud, and were not criminally lilegal. They were irregular only because of some technical construction of the law, which may possibly be correct in a strictly legal sense. This point has never been raised by any one else, and considering the thorough hunt that has been made to develope crookedness in the election, which has resulted in showing that there were less than two hundred irregular ballots deposited in the entire State, ought to convince the the entire State, ought to convince the unprejudiced on both sides, that the election was a remarkably fair one.

COMMISSIONER TANNER

Washington, August 4.—Commis-sioner of Pensions Tanner has made public a statement of the number of cases made "special" from the date he assum 27, up to the 23rd of July. It shows that during that period there were made spe-cial 958 claims. Of this number the Commissioner has had 952 drawn from the files and examined to ascertain who the flies and examined to ascertain who were the attorneys in the cases. The resultashow among other things that there were 118 cases in which there were no attorneys; that George F. Lemon was attorney in 9 cases and William W. Dudley attorney in 5 cases.

The Commissioner then names 11 other attorneys who had cases made special in numbers ranging from 26 down to 8. The above aggregate 385 cases. The balance of the cases, the Commissioner says, are distributed among various other attorneys, no one of whom is the attorney in as many as eight cases. About 317 attorneys, the Commissioner says, are represented altogether.

A wild scene of waving hats and handkerchiefs, and people rising and cheering, followed. The appearance of Governor Foraker renewed the enthusiasm Mr. Halstead never appeared in bette serches, and people rasing and caering, followed. The appearance of Governor Foraker renewed the enthusiasm.

Mr. Halstead never appeared in better health, and with a trifle of nervousness at so much demonstration, he took his seat beside the Mayor.

When all the clubs had been seated, Mayor Mosby made a welcoming address, containing allusions to the honored guest's fearlessness as a journalist, and a suggestion of the usefulness of such—a quality in the Senate of the United States. When Mr. Halstead arose to reply he had a most flattering reception, which continued several minutes, during which the assemblage of 5,000 arose and cheered and cheered again, Mr. Halstead said:

I am both gratified and surprised at the manifestation before me to-night, and I can answer the question as to how I am by saying that I am very well indeed. Concerning the action of the Senate in my case, which His Honor has referred to me, I have no grievances that I desire to have the public concerned about. The action by the Senate was, so far as the Republicans opposed to me, largely owing to misapprehensions which I was unable at the time to correct. There was also evidences in some cases of personal feeling that did not do me justice. But, however intended on the part of those who rojected me, I cheerfally and sincerely recognize the fact that they did me a kinniness. I have been abroad on my own hook, and have accomplished the mission most important to myself—the restoration of my health. The President had no difficulty in finding a suitable man for the place in the Hon. William Waiter Phelps, a gentleman admirably qualified to discharge the duties of that office, as has been proven by his excellent work in the Samon conference.

Touching the inquiry as to whether I ama candidate for the United States Senate, I do not tish to have that urged upon the people. That is a matter for consideration after the Republican victory which I confidently expect in November, by the triumphant re-election of Governor Foraker and the election of the Mr. Mason has gone to Grafton to a Republican General Assembly. I do not think it possible for the people of Ohlo to permit the law-making power of the State to pass into the hands of the Democrats. There is nothing in the reent history of the party to warrant such action.

THE SHAH'S TOUR. He is the Great Attraction in Paris Just Now-He Proves that he is not Proud. London, August 4.—The Parisians are in the same state of excitement about the Shah as England was a lortnight before, only rather more so. It is needless to say they have discovered entirely new with a cheerful frankness of disregard of tales about him, and that these are told with a cheerful frankness of diaregard of newspaper readers' moral welfare, which cannot be successfully emulated in an Anglo-Saxon community. What seems to have horrified the wise-eating Frenchmen most is the Shah's immorality in a gastronomic sense. When he eats to suit himself he has all put on the table at once. He often hegins with a lot of peaches swimming in a sauce largely composed of vinegar and pepper; he eats grapes with his roast, and has an entire lamb cut up to be boiled into soup for him with lots of onions, peas, etc.

The Shah has proved that he is not proud. It is quite touching to read how he met King Dinah, another quaint potentate, who at home rules the Senegales, but who on this occasion happened to be kicking his heels in the anteroom of the Minister of Commerce. The African King was unusually gorgeous, being attired in sworl and the second-hand and very highest embroidered raiment of a Catholic bishop, which he had bought at auction. The Shah invited the King home, got him to point out his kingdom on the map, traded photos with him, and asked him a great many questions.

The Socialist papers are full of indignation at the French authorities for lowing down to a despot who at home has no respect at all for the workingman or any other kind of man, and even some of the more conservative papers have geried out against the excess of divility lavished upon the Persian majesty by Carnot and his Cabinet. Carnot is just the sort of a man to entertain the Shah, and he had the start in winning that rearred.

Shah, and he had the start in winning that monarch's favor, having been named that monarch's favor, having been named Sadi, after the Persian poet.

There is a real diplomatic object back of all this fuss made in the Shah's honor by the French Government, namely, a desire to please Russia by following suit and doing fas much as possible to make the important Persian happy.

The Shah, during his channel trip, was fearfully ill, and so was the small favorite who, goes about with him wearing a saber as long as himself.

Beaum, August 4.—Prince Bismarck's maneuvers to bring about a meeting of the three Emperors have been folled by the sullen reticence of the Czar, who has munications' of Count Schouskloff in forming him that Emperor Francis Joseph and Emperor William are favor able to an interview. It was ever doubtful until Wednesday last whether the Czar would adhere to his journey to Berlin, Schouskloff only then receiving formal authority to inform the Government of the Czar's visit.

The language of the semi-official papers of St. Petersburg is studiously designed to divest the visit of any tendential to the control of t

Ozar is described as too well experienced with Bismarck's finesse to allow himself to again be duped. With unshaken firmess he refused to listen to overtures unless preceded by a recognition of Russia's claims to freedom of action in the Balkan peninsula.

The ominous outlook on the Servo-Bulgarian frontier, where both Governments are massing troops, the rising in Crete, and the concentration of Russian troops around Cars discourage the hope that the Cars's journey will be anything but a formality, which he would avoid if possible. The Foreign Office does not expect him to come to Berlin. He will go direct from Stettin to Potsdam, where he will stay one night, and then proceed to Copenhagen by way of Kiel.

As soon as the Cars's intentions were known, the programme for the reception of the Emperor of Austria was issued. He will arrive on Adgust 19 at the Theirgarten station, where a grand reception will be given him. From the station the two Emperors will drive through Unter der Linden to the old Schlost. The next three days will be devoted to parades in the Templeholer fields, maneuvers at Spandau, State banquets and a naval review at Kiel.

fields, maneuvers at Spandau, State ban-quets and a naval review at Kiel. quets and a naval review at Kiel.

Among the pressing questions to be discussed by Bismarck and Count Kallonoky, the Anstrian Prime Minister, during the stay of Emperor Francis to or three days, and receive his final instructions before leaving for England, Joseph, is the position of the Pope. It is believed that Mgr. Galimberti has instructions and fluenced the Austrian Emperor to make an explicit promise to rupture the alliance with Italy if Italy ventures to occupy the Vatican, should the Pope leave Rome. Signor Crispi, resenting the hostile diplomacy of Austria on the Italion policy regarding the Vatican, comes again to confer with Prince Bismarck immediately after the departure of the Austrian Emperor.

The temper of the Italian Government toward the Austrian is displayed in Signor Crispi's response to Prince Bismarck's congratulation on the repression of the Irredentisis' committees. It was briefly: "The Irredentisis will continue to aggitate until Austria removes the cause."

Emperor William's sojourn in England is a prominent topic of the press and society. The semi-official newspapers indulge in rhetorical "gush" over English sympathies with the Emperor's unwasried service in the interest Foi peace, the community of interest existing between the two nations, their great civilizing mission, etc. There is a more genuine ring in the tone of the unofficial press.

For instance, the Vossischs Zeitung will be a sign of the ever increasing strength of the bond uniting kindred peoples, leading to a mutual development along the path of liberty, and that both nations in the forefront of the culgiture of the word, will continue to stamp their views indelibly upon the progress of humanity. The Tugbiati holds that the Emperor's presence at Osborne House gives the direct lie to the state aments representing him as inimical to England,

The Boersen Zeitung says: "Emperor William grasps the meaning of his father's words, that Germany and England swere meant by nature to be-friends.

Although England will enter no formal treaty, the result of the visit will be such an approximation to the triple alliance as will exert a decisive influence upon European politics,"

The Post, an occasional mouth piece of Prince Bismarck, also declares the political character of the visit, though it admits that it is improbable that the issue will be a definite alliance against the common enemy. After returning from England the Emperor will meet the Regent of Bavaria at Bayreuth, and will attend the close of the Wagnerian festival,

CANADIANS EXCITED

Over the Seizure of British Sealers by Americans.

THE STORY AS NOW RELATED

ly John Hawkins, Able Seaman The American Consul Telegraphs to the Washington Authori-

VICTORIA, B. C., August 4 .- There is great excitement here. The schooner Black Dlamond arrived here last evening from Behring sea. Particulars of cutter are as follows: "July 11 we got in a catch of fifty-three seals, At 4 p. m. we sighted the revenue cutter Rush. came up to us and ordered us to heave to. We did so. The chief officer came aboard and demanded our papers. We refused to give them to him, and he then got a screw driver and screwed off the hinges on the locks in the cabin, took our papers and 105 sealskins and all indian spears and ten bags of sail. Then he put John Hawkins, an able seamsu, aboard, with instructions to us not to interfere, as sailing master. As soon as the Rush was lost sight of a southwest course was steered right for Victoria. Hawkins from the start saw it was impossible to attempt to take charge of affairs in his own hands and consequently lay in his bunk nearly all the time, not attempting to interfere. John Hawkins the American seamen says he was treated kindly by everybody. When he was put abroad the steamer he said to his officers: "Instead of taking her to Silka they may go to Victoria." They did not answer him, Mr. Hammley, collector of customs here, said he is of the opinion that when Hawkins was put abroad the Black Diamond the people on the Rush did not care whether she came to Victoria. Diamond the people on the Rush did not care whether she came to Victoria not care whether she came to victoria or not as long as she got out of the sea and stopped destroying seals. Hawkins bas told everything to the American consul here who has wired the Washington authorities about the matter.

THE IMMIGRATION BOARD.

The Rayl a Good One. The Hayl a Good One.

The Hancock county Independent has the following concerning the operations in that district: The Union oil well, some 300 yards from the famous Rayl well, came in one day last week. The tools had only about entered the sand, when the oil commenced spouting. It is estimated to be a 500 barrel well. The cricinal Earl well, but recently at rule. original Rayl well, but recently struck, has already put over $40,000 in the pocket of its owner, and it will put in thousands more, judging from present indications, as the territory is supposed to have staying qualities.
